To those who have been observing, it is apparent that our constitution has been sustaining a double war for its life, and if the abolition assailers have been less to be dreaded, it is because they had less power.

The Purchase of Louisiana, 1803.

It is a curious as well as a profitable reminiscence at the present day, when the seceded States on the lower Mississippi are denying the right of navigation to the vigorous and more populous States on the Ohio, upper Mississippi and Missouri, to refer to some of the interesting incidents connected with the purchase of this great empire, which secured to the whole Union not only the free pavigation of the Father of Waters. but extended our authority to the shores of the Pacific.

The following, from the correspondnce of the Baltimore Clipper, tells the manner in which Lieut. Col. M. B. Carter, of the 20th Tennessee, was captured. Our readers will remember that the lieutenant colonel is now in this city, having arrived last Saturday night under escort :

Much is said in regard to the various feats of bravery performed in the engage-ment in which Gen. Zollicoffer lost his life And much more might be said, and the whole not then told, in commendation of the gallant conduct of our troops on that occasion. Individual deeds of daring are often overlooked. Many occur that are known only to those engaged, and are consequently never brought to the light of the world, to be admired and emulated. however, about which very little has been said, did take place, and is well known to those who participated in the glorious victory achieved in the rout of the rebels in Southeastern Kentucky.

In a moment higher "authority" ordered them to fall back upon the right flank of Messrs. Cobb, Toombs, Crawford, as it was his duty. But the Lieutenant Colonel, James G. Spears, entertained too then. He said, in substance: "Boys, go with the Colonel; and if you have to engage the enemy, I'll be there. For the present wish to see what's going on here. I think I can get one or two in this direction;" pointing to some stragglers. Suiting the word to the action, off he went, at "double quick," towards a couple of Secesh, who were, as it seemed, posting themselves in s army. As he put spurs to his horse they spied him, and prepared for his capture or One fell behind a log to his left, while the other took a position to his right, on the brow of a hill, considerably above him. CHICAGO, KY, Feb. 12, 1862. Editors Democrat - Gentlemen: I have Jim Lane's worshippers are still been thinking a great deal about our trying to galvanize him, notwithstanding present political and financial troubles, and I have concluded to drop you a few lines containing what I believe to be the policy for Kentucky to pursue; (I, being one of the ticular favor, to receive no ovation, for Engsovereigns, claim to have a right to propose culties, and to provide some method by same date, is heaping endless ridicule on which the people may be able to meet the gratuitous insult to our ministers is to refinancial pressure of the times. I think, at press, as far as possible, the enthusiastic the last session of the Legislature, there was a bill brought in by a certain member to extend the stay law, which, strange to say, failed, although it must be a conceded precipitate the crisis, for which England is fact that a large majority of the voters of not yet quite prepared. Again, correct as Kentucky are in favor of a law to stay the The thirty additional recruits to the gunboats in Tennessee is certainly a high stay law, so guarded that judgments may retain a lien on property; but no execution to issue until our political troubles are set-tled, and our financial matters become fixed upon some firmer basis.

The honest working men of the country need something of the kind to protect themselves from utter ruin, as our officers seem to be a heartless set of bloodsuckers, thinking that now is the time of harvest and they, therefore, thrust in the sickle and cut broad and clean. One would suppose that the civil officers of the country consider themselves a chosen people; for I do not know of one that has volunteered his services to protect the country from the ravages of Davis' marauding bands of desperadocs-no, gentlemen, not a judge, clerk, sheriff, nor constable, with one or two exceptions, has patriotism enough to help to defend his State from subjugation, and preserve the Union and the Constitu-

There is another matter upon which my mind has been greatly exercised lately, and that is the families of our brave soldiers, who are now battling with the enemies of our country in the storm of war. Most of those brave men have left helpless and dependent families to be cared for by a cold and heartless public. Those men were assured when they enlisted in the service of their country, that their wives and little ones should be taken care of and supplied with at least the necessaries of life. Alas! how deceived; to my knowledge, and within a few miles of Chicago, there are not less than twenty women and children, the wives and families of the brave men now far away from home, in the tented field, pursuing the red path of war, with honor to themselves and credit to their country, and yet their women and children are houseless, barefooted, and almost naked and breadless.

Now, gentlemen, I do think that when our Legislature meets, it should remember the widow and the orphan, and make provision for their relief I think the man, whether he be a representative, judge, or citizen, who would refuse them aid from the Government, deserves a worse fate than rebels or traitors. If the Legislature does not make some provision for them, they must continue to suffer. for, as I said above, many of them have no one, as it would be the highest insult for a family, or to let them live on his land. know of several who have been refused a house because they were unable to pay the

There seems to be a constitutional scruple about confiscating the property of rebels and traitors, and it is too bad, I recken, to kill a fellow for it; an i I suppose it uncon-stitutional to tax the poor rebels and traithave gone to the war to keep them from "getting their rights," or rather to give them their rights; therefore, I do think it is the duty of the Legislature to take the case in hand and do something for them. It fills my heart with grief to see a soldier's wife going from place to place, like a pauper, begging a morsel for herself and her half ished children. I hope it will not be long before our State will make some provision for them, so that they may not be insulted by the disloyal citizens amongst us.

The foremost ship of the British navy, the Warrior, must evidently share the same fate. A short trial trip, of two or three hundred miles, has disclosed such serious defects of construction that even the London Times indirectly suggests the possibility that the best mode of building mailclad frigates has not yet been attained. The facts warrant such a conclusion, so far as English practice is exemplified in that vessel. Although the Warrior experienced no very rough weather on its short excursion, it was found that the leverage exercised upon the plates and fastenings by the motion of the vessel, as she passed over the waves, had loosened many of the plates, and actually caused such dangerous leaks as to require docking for immediate repairs

Our Legislature is to meet again on the passions the Times is said to be the faithful exponent? I think not; for Punch, of the Yankeedom. I think the object of this most go so far as to involve the Yankee Minister in the popular indignation-not an improbable sequence of the excitement-and so are the opinions of Southern statesmen in estimate when meeting the question of hostile interference in American affairs. We look to cotton and to the immediate present. They look to vast movements on the continental chess-board, and to important changes in the map of Europe, which are to be guarded against in the far distant The simple problem to us, is to them full of complexity. Another point which we should never lose sight of is the once in this Aglo-Yankee war, England, far from being contented with cotton, tobacco and free trade with the Southern Confeden racy, will adjust great personal interests in Central America, and especially on the Isthmus of Pausma. But to obtain control of this Isthmus requires most adroit maneuvering to conciliate or out-wit France and Spain, whose opera-tions in Mexico, begun at the auspicious moment of American dissensions, are but the prelude to a definite system of procedures which looks to an established transatlantic polity, and the future subsidization of both of the great powers of North America. In politics the strangest fellowships sometimes follow almost instantly the bitterest enmities, and the combination of the United States with the Southern Confederacy, to check European encroachment on this side of the water, and to prevent English domination in the Isthmus-remote and incredible as such a thing now seems o us-is a pessibility studiously considered in the closets of Downing street. These cogitations, suggested by the insult in the Times, occur to me as the most plausible excuse for a course so wholly unwarranted. Be their value what it may, we can rest assured that, hereafter, the relations of the great civilized powers in Europe and America will be intimate and compl The Monroe doctrine is very dead for all time to come, and the day may not be very far distant when we of the South shall fee so deeply interested in the "balance of power," which henceforth embraces both continents, that the legions of Great Britain and Virginia, or of France and South Carolina, may be found fighting side by side for the preservation of some unknown "sick man," in some unsuspected Crimea. The foregoing speculations have carried home, and it is impossible for them to obtain me so far that I have room to make mention The system of universal enlistments contemplated in the military bill recently passed by Congress, will, doubtless, receive at your hands such attention as it merits. It departure from Manasses would encourage McClellan to advance, but the heavy rain last night, foretold by the beautiful, warm day, puts any advance out of the question. Lhave seen recent copies of the Baltimore with and the Maryland News Sheet, the former of which is as bold in its tone as before the reign of tyranny began, speak ing most contemptuously of the "Chinese Bulletins" issued by the Lincoln papers In the latter I find a characteristic anecdote of the Springfield-Washington Gorilla. A committee of railroad men waited on his Apeness to solicit the rebuilding of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, torn up by Jackson. Lincoln said, "I know nothing about it. You must go to the Apostle

"The Apostle Paul!" exclaimed the astonished railroaditee; "who is he?"
"General McClellan," replied Lincoln, 'he is my Apostle Paul; I swear by him."

They repaired to the Apostle Paul, who told them he was anxious to accommodate name of Beauregard who objected to it, and that if the "30,000 Union majority" at the would arm them, and they could give the Baltimore and Ohio road all the protection as the successor of Mr. Hunter. It is not probable there would be much accord in the views of the President and Mr. Rives. If boat. Colonel Russell, of the Tenth Conthe Cabinet is to be recast at the inauguration of the permanent government, a happy Mallory to some other department and putting Mr. Bocock in his place. It is true that Mr. Bocock is spoken of as the next Speaker, but Tennessee desires to be represented in that office, and it would be fair to allow her claim; Mr. B. would make an admirable and efficient Secretary of the work on the dams of the Upper Potomac, and Washington is now in a state of blockade-complete, almost, as that of Charles-Macfarland, in accepting the nomination to Congress, as Mr. Tyler's successor, announces his "inextinguishable devotion to our cause and to eternal separation from the people beyond the Susquehanna"-not the Potomac, mark you.

AN UNTRUTH, WITH A PURPOSE .- W. have high and reliable authority for contradicting the story of the New York Tribune that General McClellan has been superseded as the General in Chief of the whole the three and a half inches used in that army of the United States. His relations precisely such as they have been ever since the retirement of General Scott from active service, such as General Scott's were previously.

The greater vigor and better system of the Secretary Stanton's administration of the War Department enables it to relieve Gen. routine details of the business appertaining to his position of General in Chief of the whole army, and upon the fact that his staff has been slightly so relieved the Tribune's falsehood with a purpose behind it, is based.

That purpose is evidently to create con-confidence and embarrassments that may possibly derange General McClellan's plans gated until it has been in operation eleven years from the day of its ratification. The article reads thus:

The treaty shall remain in force for ten based on its avowed preference for the success of the reballion over the restoration of the Union as it existed before that began, which is the end and aim of all General McClellan's military combinations .- Wash

The New York Herald on the Arrest of Dr. Ives, its Correspondent.

All the knowledge we have of this trans action is what is contained in the order of Mr. Secretary Stanton; and, if the information upon which that order is based be correct, we have no hesitation in saying that the Secretary of War has acted with a promptitude which we highly approve, and with a fidelity to his trust which is worthy of imitation by all others in authority. If Mr. Ives has improperly sought for military secrets at the War Department, he has transcended his duty to the Herald. We need not tell our readers that we have never left any stone unturned to procure for them the earliest and most reliable news. But to accomplish this we have never adopted any means not strictly legitimate and in accordance with the rules of propriety; and since this war began we have never published a line from which the enemy could gain any information respecting the future move-ments of the army. The Strength of the Rebels at Roanoke Island!

XXXVIIth Congress-First Session. WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. - Senate - Mr. Wilkinson, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported a joint resolution for the relief of certain Indians. He said there were at this time from 4,000 to 5,000 loyal Indians at Leavenworth, Kansas, who had been driven from their homes, and were entirely destitute, and almost in a state of starvation. They were mostly Creeks, Chica-saws and Choctaws.

Mr. Doolittle said he had a resolution to the same effect, drawn with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Wilkinson accepted Mr. Doolittle's resolution as a substitute, and it was Mr. Harris also introduced a bill providing for provisional governments in certain cases. Referred.

Mr. Doolittle presented a petition from the Oneida Indians, asking that the oriminal laws of Wisconsin be extended over them. Mr. Foster produced a bill to provide for the occupation of Very satisfactory dis-

OFF ROANOKE ISLAND, Feb. 9, '62. "Roanoke Island is ours. The military authorities struck to us yesterday. Their means of defense were truly formidable, and they were used with a determination worthy of a better cause. They consisted of a better cause. They consisted of two elaborately constructed works, mounting to gether 22 heavy guns, three of them being 100 pounders rifled. Four other batteries, mounting together 20 guns, a large proporation of them being of large caliber—some of them rifled-eight steamers mounting two guns each, and each having a rifled gun with the diameter of a 32 pounder. a prolonged obstruction of sunken vessels, and piles to thwart our advance, and altogether a body of men numbering scarcely less than 5,000, of whom 3,000 are now our prisoners.

"The fighting commenced on the morning of the 7th, about 11 o'clock, and was continued until dark. The following morning it was resumed at an early hour, and it lasted until late in the afternoon, when, by a bold charge by our army, the rebel flag was made to succumb, and our own was hoisted everywhere on the island in its

U. S. STEAMER DELAWARE, OFF ELIZABETH CITY, Feb. 10, '62. "Sir: I have to report that I have met the enemy off this place this morning at 9 o'clock, and, after a very sharp engagement, have succeeded in destraying or capturing his entire naval force, and silencing and destroying a battery on Cobb's point. The vessel saved from destruction is the Ellis, Capt. J. M. Cooke, who was wounded, and is a prisoner on board this ship. I have other prisoners. I am happy to say that our casualties are few, considering the warmth of the enomy's fire—say two or three killed and some wounded. The conduct of the gallant men I have the honor to command is worthy of all praise. None of our vessels are severely injured. I shall leave here with a small force and visit the canals, and take a look into the other places before I "I have the honor to be, &c. &c. "J. C. ROWAN, U. S. N." RIVER MATTERS.

The river is still falling, but much more slowly than on Wednesday, the decline for the twenty-four hours ending last evening being only nine inches, leaving nine feet water in the canal by the mark. After the snow of night before last, the weather became intensely cold, making ice on the ponds at least half an inch thick, and, though the sun shone clearly

The amount of business done at the levee was very small, though the number of boats arriving and departing was considerable. The Major Anderson, Cincinnati; W. W. Crawford, Carrollton; Eugene and Big Grey Eagle, Henderson; the Tecumseh, Monarch, Dun-leith, Fort Wayne, N. W. Thomas, Madison and Queen of the West arrived from above, some going below and others remaining in port. FOR CINCINNATI .- The Superior is the regular mail-

THE DEAD BROUGHT TO LIFE

J. H. MONTGOMERY'S

YEING, SCOURING, AND TAILORING ESTABlishment, is on Jefferson street, north side, between Third and Fourth, No. 316, where the above named work is done in a style that surpasses anything in this community. Owners feel disappointed when they see their old clothes; they present a very different appearance for a reasonable consideration.

Those philosophers who insist that dress makes the man, can put their philosophy to the test at a very triding expense, by calling at J. H. MONTGOMERY'S establishment. Those who have dilaphitated wardrobes would do well to have them pass through my handst they will find it profitable by so doing. All work placed in my care is done with neatness and dispatch.

All kinds of Clothing made to order on the shortest notice and most reasonable terms.

I feel granful to the community for their liberal patronage, and I flatter myself that I have given satisfaction, or else I could not have the over-crew of work that is daily brought to my shop; and the cry is,
"Still they come." It is the whole cry. If you want your work done right, go to Montgomery's; there you will be pleased, for he is the one that can dot. Let those be longing to the fraternity bring their work along, and have it done in a handsome style.

Ladles' Silks, Satins, Velvets, Woolens, and Cottons, cleansed and dyed to any shade or color, and warranted not to rub off or fade. Crape Shawis cleansed to leok like new. As the good weather is coming, ladies, send your Shawis and Dresses and have them beautified.

Please call and examine the work at my shop, and satisfy yourselves. Be sure and call at
